

TRAINING

Creative Problem Solving:
Techniques for deepening perspective & cognitive empathy

What?

Do you find it hard to work with, sell to or collaborate with people very different to yourself? You are not alone! With this practical VR infused workshop, you will learn why it feels hard and what you can do to solve challenging problems in your team and customer relationships

Who?

Groups of 6 learners (3 hours)

Where?

In the Ecublens premises of SecondWorld

Benefits for Participants:

Participants will learn how to diagnose problems relating to collaboration with colleagues and customers very different from themselves. By deconstructing key thought processes, deepening cognitive empathy and suspending judgment, participants can learn how to see the world through the eyes of others – a critical first step in improving their leadership techniques and selling approaches.

Programme highlights

Be stimulated by a deeply immersive Virtual Reality Environment combined with small group discussion and debate including how to:

- Take Perspective

MAIN TRAINER

SARAH SCHWAB

Sarah is Founder & CEO at The Experience Accelerator, a company providing high impact to leaders and their organisations through leadership development with a cutting edge feel. Thought partner to business leaders throughout EMEA, she thrives on partnering with organisations to increase the "time to value" of their learning strategies and developing the leaders they need to execute their FUTURE strategies flawlessly. Sarah brings extensive European, US, Middle Eastern and South East Asian business experience. This international exposure, combined with her versatile style allows her to be effective in a wide range of learning contexts - from C suite dialogues in Zurich, high potential leader development in Budapest to front line leader training in Doha. Sarah helps leaders improve their global mindset and strategic leadership capabilities, infusing technology, immersive techniques and assessments to help participants develop greater external focus and experience managing teams and individuals very different from themselves. She is also adept at leading scenario planning activities and other exercises aimed at raising strategic awareness and managing cognitive bias when forming future strategies.

Nadene Canning

Nadene worked in over 40 countries managing small companies and large projects in both for profit and non-profit enterprises before creating her boutique consultancy, ALLSystemsGO!, in 2009.

Today she advises, coaches and facilitates experiential learning within organizations to accelerate team performance and personal impact. Her areas of expertise include leadership, strategy, sustainability, innovation and the future of work.

After her book La force de l'équilibre Vie familiale, vie professionnelle, published in 2012 she was asked to design two courses; Leading Change in Sustainable Business within the DAS program and a Leadership and Management skills course for the Masters' program at Business School Lausanne. Since 2017, she also teaches Negotiation Skills to young engineers at the EPFL College of Management and Technology.

As a continuous learner Nadene is often taking new courses herself and is certified as a change process facilitator and a Being at Full Potential coach. Nadene holds a masters' degree from the EPFL in Management of Innovation, an undergraduate degree in Economics from Concordia University. Born and raised in Montreal, she works in English and French.
